

GIVING HERE MATTERS

Gifts of Stock

A contribution of appreciated securities can produce significant tax savings for you and help you be more philanthropic than you thought possible. That's because you receive a double benefit: an immediate charitable deduction for the current fair market value of the securities you contribute, and you are not subject to any capital gains tax on the appreciation in value. The fair market value of your contributed securities can be deducted up to 30% of your adjusted gross income. In addition, if the amount is larger than you can use in one year, you can carry the surplus as a charitable deduction over the next five years.
